

Dear Doctor Cicilioni:

Thank you so much for your wonderful care as my physician. It would please me if you would accept the following letter of my appreciation.

As I neared 50 and looked in the mirror I hated what was looking back at me. My face was sagging. I had lumps down here. I had lumps over there. And well, not just my face was sagging. I decided that it was time to do something about it, to do something for me. I talked to my husband about what I wanted to do and he said, "Don't cut corners. Find the best because you don't want to be sorry for the rest of your life."

I went to a few doctors for consultation but I didn't feel the trust I needed for such a big decision. My sister works in a hospital emergency room and has the opportunity to meet many doctors and know their reputations both personally and professionally so I asked her who she knew to be really good. She told me immediately, "Orlando Cicilioni. He is the best."

I made an appointment for consultation. And this time it was much different. He didn't rush. He took the time to know exactly what I wanted done and what I expected from my doctor. He listened carefully and we didn't decide what to do until we had talked about everything very thoroughly. I knew I had found the surgeon who would really do the job right and take no chances. I felt trust and safety.

But just to be sure I scheduled a second consult and brought my husband. He is good at checking things out. He did. He told me that not only did this doctor have excellent qualifications and an excellent reputation in Orlando, Florida he was highly respected throughout the United States and that one of the things he was known for was getting a very natural look. That is what I wanted. I wanted to look good but not like someone else. I did not want a fake look.

Surgery is so scary. The big day came and I was terrified. But doctor Cicilioni was so calm and so confident that I relaxed. I asked the surgery nurses how he was in surgery. One said, "Oh, don't worry, He's a perfectionist." Well, she was right.

Now I look in the mirror and smile. I really like who looks back now. I feel so happy and proud. I love the way my cloths fit. Everyone tells me how good I look. I've had hundreds of compliments and no one yet has guessed that I had surgery. I just look like me, a much better and younger me.

Thank you again
Sincerely,
